

Ophthalmologist

Our multi-disciplinary referral team is growing and we are seeking the right ophthalmologist to join our team.

The ideal candidate must be registered with the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons and should have ECVO or ACVO diploma or be eligible to sit for relevant examinations. A fantastic remuneration package is offered to recognise the value of this role, including competitive salary, bonus scheme, CPD payments, pension, minimum 33 days holiday and private health insurance.

Pride Veterinary Centre offers specialist services in ophthalmology, anaesthesia, diagnostic imaging (including on-site MRI and CT), internal medicine, cardiology, orthopaedic surgery, neurology and soft tissue surgery enabling great team interaction and truly excellent service. The current ophthalmology team has ECVO Diplomate and RCVS Specialist, alongside a great support team.

It is the central flagship small animal hospital for the Scarsdale Veterinary Group, a multi species practice employing 250 staff across 10 sites including Farm and Equine centres of excellence. The referral hospital is a modern, state-of-the-art purpose-built teaching hospital with a wide range of equipment, with a separate dedicated night team and first opinion practice to ensure patient care 24/7. There is a close working relationship with the University of Nottingham, supporting the teaching of students on rotation through various disciplines and with access to the on-line library.

Located in the midlands near the Peak district with stunning walking, climbing and outdoor pursuit opportunities and within easy reach of road, rail and flight connections, the practice is well placed to offer career satisfaction with the ability to live and relax in enjoyable surroundings.
